Presentation by Professor and UNDP Historian Craig Murphy

How Much Progress is the UN Making Toward Ending Poverty?

Join us for the annual meeting of members, an opportunity to find out about UNA-GB's work, offer insights and ideas to strengthen our programs, and to hear a presentation on the UN Development Programme. In his recent award-winning book, The United Nations Development Programme: A Better Way?, Craig Murphy, Professor of International Relations at Wellesley College, and official UNDP Historian, traces the history of the UNDP, the central network coordinating UN work in more than 160 developing countries. He will offer a critical view of the challenges and successes of the UN in its fight to reduce poverty worldwide.

Members and guests are welcome. There is no charge for this program.
